Department of Mechanical Engineering and Mesa organized a webinar on "The Future of Marketing" on 13.08.2021 Mr. R. Rahul Kumar CEO, R.K. Digital Media and Digital Services.. He was the resource person for this program. Via google meet. He explained lots of factors to the students as follows

The Future of Marketing will look at a variety of changes coming to the online world and how customer interaction will change. The approach is primarily for small to midsize businesses and considers the significant changes over the past few years, plus changes that may present new challenges to get your brand seen.

The report predicted that influencer marketing will see significant growth in 2023 with 17% of marketers planning to invest in it for the first time. Additionally, 89% of marketers using influencer marketing will increase or maintain their investment next year.

The future marketing trends of 2025 will focus on interactive, engaging communication with the consumer more than ever before and making advertising easier than ever before

Businesses will have a marketing channel mix that's a lot more diverse than today. There will be a shift in focus and mind set. Rather than focusing on advertising platform, brands will focus a lot more on advertising through people.
